Occupational English Test (OET) opens a new test venue in the UK with Nottingham Language Academy.

OET, the English language test for healthcare professionals, will be available at a new venue from March. The new Nottingham test venue will be managed by Nottingham Language Academy.

OET (Occupational English Test) is an Australian-developed English language test which assesses language communication skills of healthcare professionals. It provides assessment of all four language skills – listening, reading, writing and speaking – through test material designed to reflect real healthcare scenarios.

Linda Walker, company director says: “We are committed to providing courses and exams that meet the needs of the communities in the East Midlands. By offering OET at Nottingham Language Academy, we are enabling health care professionals to demonstrate their English language proficiency for professional registration and employment purposes”.

“OET, which is owned by Cambridge English Language Assessment and the Box Hill Institute, has a unique and proven 30 year pedigree in Australia, New Zealand and Singapore. The decision to offer the test was an easy one to make,” she concludes.

OET CEO, Sujata Stead, said the new venue will make a huge contribution to the healthcare sector.

“I’m sure OET candidates will have an excellent experience with Nottingham Language Academy. We commend them for their passion for meeting the needs of the community through empowering healthcare professionals to have the level of English communication skills required for safe and effective care”.
